BELLE BOYD'S BOARD BILL. Belle Boyd, the "rebel spy," is having a practical demonstration of the truth of the old adage that "it never rains but pours," so far as trouble is concerned anyway. Her lecture at Griffin, Ga., on Tuesday night, though extensively advertised, did not draw a large house, and after paying expenses there was but little money left. Wednesday morning, leaving her baggage and children at Griffin, she went to Barnes-ville to make a date. At this juncture the proprietor of the hotel at which she en staying for several days became alarmed, and, besides attaching her baggage, swore out a warrant and had her arrested for jumping her board Upon her return to Griffin she had the hotel man arrested on a charge of imprisonment, and as the justice would not allow him false take his case to the next session of Pike In the meantime the lecturer moved her effects to the Goddard House, and then proceeded to give the proprietor of the Chambers Hotel a piece of her mind. At this point in the game Chief of Police Shackleford was called in and asked to make a case of disorderly conduct against the lady.

Belle Boyd went down to Barnesville to deliver her lecture, but it is said that she had only empty benches for an audience. Her lecture is pro nounced excellent by those who have heard it, and they are mystified that she does not draw better.
